THE BOY ON THE FARM.

The position of the boy on the farm appears to be a problem which almost every agricultural writer has attempted to solve, but without that degree of success which one would suppose ought to attend such an apparently simple question. The American Cultivator says his position is no more complex than as though we found him in any other place, nor is it a fact that boys in larger numbers leave the farm than those in any other occupation in which their fathers are engaged. Why, then, should the boy on the farm be singled out for special comment over those found elsewhere? The question as to what is to become of the city boy, the street gamin, the boot-black and the newsboy, is a problem equally difficult to solve. These youth are in their present position through the force of circumstances over which they had no control, whence they are forced by want and temptation, oftentimes, into channels of crime, the sequence of which is often the prison house or the gallows.

The farmer's boy has really little more control over his future than the boy of the city. If there were never but one in each family, it would be an easy matter to provide a place for him, and we should under nearly all circumstances advise him to remain on the farm, but there is generally the interest of several brothers to be considered; they cannot all advantageously remain. The farm has brought up one family respectably, but it cannot bring up half a dozen, nor can the parent provide each one with a similar homestead, even if it were desirable that he should do so. The formation of society requires that there should be many other occupations besides that of tilling the ground. In earlier times, when the wool and flax were spun into home-made clothing, when the skins of animals were prepared and made into articles of wear, when the implements required in the culture of the soil were so simple of construction that they were a home product, then all the boys might remain and find profitable occupation. Besides which, in earlier times, the casualties to youthful life, occasioned by ignorance of the laws of health, climatic changes, and the like, had so depopulating an influence as to settle the question under discussion.

To-day there are many temptations for the boy to leave the farm, such as the promising aspect presented by various other callings. In many of our New England towns farms have been entirely deserted, influenced by that siren song of: "Go West, young man, go West." It has lured many a son from the home of his fathers to colonize the Western praries, while in some instance his place has been taken by the thrifty and ambitious foreigner, who often realizes more on the deserted farm than the adventurer who has gone to seek his fortune in the West. It is frequently asserted that the East cannot compete with the West in point of agriculture. If it is so why ask our youth to remain here? But the truth is that the distant region referred to has no real and permanent advantage over our own. In the far West, where the virgin soil is comparatively uncropped, its fertility does give a seeming advantage, which, however, amounts to no pecuniary profit on account of the distance from any available market for the products, while the social disadvantages to which the pioneer is always compelled to submit, is a very serious consideration. The fertility of the soil in the nearer West has already become so exhausted as to require fertilizing, the same as in New England, while it is a fact that we can raise more grass and corn to the acre than can be done at the West.

Again, in New England and the neighboring States we have always a ready cash market close at hand for all good farm products. Our cities are to be supplied with butter, cheese and milk, with fruit and vegetables, with beef and pork, all of which we can furnish as cheaply as the Western producer can do, and even cheaper, when the added expense of transportation is considered. Still, to a certain extent, we must leave the old beaten track of cultivating the soil with bone and muscle alone; we must use the brain more, though, like the muscles, it is of little use unless properly trained. The farmer requires educating for his special field of labor as much as does the lawyer, physician, merchant or mechanic; indeed, no profession or calling requires more intelligent culture than that of the farmer, embracing a practical employment, as it does, of all the natural science, including organic and inorganic chemistry.

HINTS ON HOUSE-CLEANING.

Where hard-finished walls have already been kalsomined, the soiled coats should be washed or scraped off before a new one is put on. This is the most disagreeable part of the process. The furniture should be covered, as lime makes spots that are removed with difficulty, especially upon black walnut. Those who have tried paint on the walls of rooms speak very strongly in its favor. It closes up the pores of the plaster so that it cannot absorb ill odors, it can be easily cleaned with soda water, (soap and water make it spotty) and it can be made of any desired tint. In washing painted walls it is a good plan to remove from the room everything that can be injured by steam and then hang sheets wrung from hot water in the room. The vapor condensing on the walls softens the dirt and it may be wiped off with woolen cloths wrung from soda water. Ceilings that have been smoked by a kerosene lamp should be washed off with soda water. If the wall about the stove, cover the black patches with gum shellack and they will not strike through either paint or kalsomine.

Furniture needs cleaning as much as other wood-work. It may be washed with warm soap suds quickly, wiped dry, and then rubbed with an oily cloth. To polish it, rub it with rotten-stone and sweet oil. Clean off the oil, and polish with chamois skin. For ordinary woodwork use whiting to rub the dirt off and ammonia. Mortar and paint may be removed from window glass with hot, sharp vinegar. Grained wood should be washed with cold tea. Carpets should be thoroughly beaten on the wrong side first and then on the right, after which spots may be removed by the use of ox gall or ammonia and water. If paper has been laid under the carpet, all dust may be easily removed with it without raising any. The warmth of floors is greatly increased by having carpet lining or layers of paper under it. Drain pipes and all places that are sour or impure may be cleansed with limewater, copperas water or cabolic acid. Copperas mixed with the whitewash put upon the cellar walls will keep vermin away. Strong brine may be used to advantage in washing bedsteads; hot alum water is also good for this purpose. Oil of lavender will drive away fleas. Hellebore sprinkled on the floor at night destroys cockroaches; they eat it and are poisoned. Cayenne pepper blown into the cracks where ants congregate will drive them away. The same remedy is good also for mice. If gilt frames, when new, are covered with a coat of white varnish, all specks can then be washed off with water without harm.

Good fires should be kept up during house-cleaning time, even though the doors and windows be kept open, and more than usual attention should be given to the provision of a nutritious and generous diet. Under the most favorable circumstances house-cleaning makes immense demands upon the nervous system as well as on the muscular, and good food at regular intervals will be great help in enabling one to be patient and find comfort in the philosophy set forth at the beginning of this brief essay—N. Y. Tribune.

NEWS AND OTHER ITEMS.

God grants as long as his people ask aright.

If men would spend in doing good to others a quarter of the time and money they spend in doing harm to themselves, misery would vanish from the earth.

Iron filings or nails and wood ashes make good fertilizers for flowers; they give a decided brilliancy to the color of both foliage and blossoms.

The circus is coming again, and once more we shall witness the cheerful spectacle of seven church members taking one little two-year-old child "to see the animals."

Life is divided into three terms,—that which is, which was, which is to be. Let us learn from the past to profit by the present, and from the present to live for the future.

To dream gloriously you must act gloriously while you are awake; and to bring angels down to converse with you in your sleep, you must labor in the cause of virtue during the day.

The time for planting strawberries, raspberries, currants, gooseberries and blackberries is now at hand. They add so much to the attractions and associations of home life in the country, and are so easily and surely productive, that none should be without them.

Always cut your flowers with a sharp knife or scissors, and early in the morning or at evening. Keep them well sprinkled, if possible add fresh water; if in a vase every day, and better warm than cold, and put in a little salt. Set the bouquet at night on the floor of a cool room or cellar.

The ocean, especially near and within the tropics, swarms with life. The remains of its myriads of moving things are conveyed by currents, and scattered and lodged, in the course of time, all over the bottom. This process, continued for ages, has covered the depths of the ocean as with a mantle, consisting of organisms as delicate as hoar-frost, and as light in the water as down in the air.

It is only by looking back at the past that we can realize the progress made in the nineteenth century. In England, down to a very late date in the last century, women were burned to death for capital offences, and hanged for committing the most petty of petty larcenies. On the slightest evidence of mental hallucination people were locked up in Bridewell and cowhided, as a part of the regular treatment.

The latest advices from the Cuban sugar estates say that grinding is fast coming to an end all over the island, and the deficiency in the production will be much larger than heretofore calculated, owing to recent destructive fires. This should be an incentive to our New England sugar-beet raising and manufacture of the saccharine ingredient.

SATURDAY, May 1, 1880.

FLOUR. REDUCED FARES TO THE ### CHICAGO CONVENTION.

The Executive Committee of the BLAINE CLUB of MAINE, having perfected their arrangements for an Excursion to Chicago to attend the Republican National Convention, make the following announcement for the benefit of those Republicans who may desire to attend and aid in nominating our honored Senator, JAMES G. BLAINE, as candidate for President at the coming election:

A special train over the Eastern Railroad will leave Portland, Thursday, May 27th, on the arrival of the morning train from Bangor, arriving in Boston in season for tea. The party will leave Boston for Chicago direct the same evening by special train, with Wagner sleeping cars, over the Boston and Albany, New York Central, Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroads, taking breakfast Friday morning at Syracuse, dinner at East Buffalo, and tea at Niagara Falls, arriving at Chicago Saturday morning. Ample hotel accommodations have been engaged for 250 persons at the Gardner and Matteson Houses, and rooms will be assigned on the train to the Democrats, avoiding confusion on their arrival. Hotel bills $2.50 and $3 per day.

Fare from PORTLAND to CHICAGO and return, $29. Wagner Sleeping Cars to Chicago, $5.50. Excursionists taken up from Portland from stations on Maine Central R. R. at one fare; tickets to be procured at all stations. Persons desiring to secure lodging should address the Secretary, J. SWETT ROWE, Augusta, as early as possible.

All Republicans are cordially invited to join the excursion.

"GRANT OR BLAINE."

The Boston Traveller has been by far the most eager and confident of the third-term champions, and until recently has been unwilling to see or admit the possibility of any nomination but that of Gen. Grant. Recent events have caused that paper to recognize the drift of the canvass, and in an editorial of last Friday it foreshadowed and prepared for the nomination of Senator Blaine. The Traveller article opens with the declaration of Governor Boutwell that the result of the Chicago Convention will be Grant or Blaine, and proceeds to demonstrate the self-evidence of that proposition. It estimates 337 votes for Grant on the first ballot, which is done by assigning to him delegates that he will not get; it concedes 279 to Blaine, which is as obviously less than he is entitled to; and divides the 150 remaining of the 756 delegates between Sherman, Edmunds and other scattering candidates. On that basis the Traveller proceeds to say:

"What then must happen? Mr. Blaine's following will not break. That is certain. That Mr. Blaine's name will not be withdrawn is, if possible, more certain. Either one or two things must take place. Either enough votes will have to be transferred from Sherman and Edmunds to nominate General Grant, or else his name will be withdrawn from the convention. Assume it to be withdrawn, then what? There will be Mr. Blaine's 300 votes, roundly speaking, and they will not break; 100 votes added to them will convert them into a nominating majority. Does any sane man doubt that out of the 337 released Grant votes Mr. Blaine would obtain, on the next ballot, less than one-third.

"Let us go a little further into figures, figures that nobody disputes, to see what part of the Grant strength Mr. Blaine is sure of, if Grant's name be withdrawn. The whole of the Pennsylvania delegation, substantially, is on record for Blaine as its second choice. That scores 58 for Blaine to begin with; if the Grant column is broken up. In Ohio he has 8 pledged delegates, certainly, if a break is reached; that brings his gain to 66. South Carolina's 14 are pledged to him as second choice; that brings his gain to 80. If the New York delegation breaks from Grant, at least 30 of the 70 are known to be ready to join the Blaine column; that gives him 110. Of the Illinois delegation of 42, if Grant be out of the way, Blaine will surely get 10; that brings his gain from the break to 120. There is no need to go further. Every man who knows the alphabet of politics knows that all over the South, if Grant's name is withdrawn, Blaine will be the rallying-cry. He will get half of the Grant column or more, if it is ever broken, and that will nominate him.

"We do not dislike the alternative. We prefer Grant because we believe him to be the stronger nominee of the two, all things taken into account. But Blaine is a grand leader, a sterling Republican, whose nomination would arouse the enthusiasm of the party to the highest point, even if it did not attract to its support some external elements to which Grant's candidacy can alone appeal with success. We feel assured that Grant is the stronger; but Blaine is strong enough. The National Convention is not going to make a very bad mistake this time in any case."

WHISTLING.

The most notable and significant case of whistling to keep up courage is Senator Conkling's latest effort to revive the rapidly weakening "third-term boom." It the Hale Investigating committee.

Mr. Chadbourne, Secretary of State, was has been telegraphed all over the land on the stand, on Friday, and produced the that the New York member of the third- original returns. Among other questions, term Senatorial junto has expressed un- he was asked if, at the time he was chosen qualified confidence in Grant's nomination Secretary, there were not two legislatures and election; but the arrival of Saturday's in session. The Justice presiding inquired N. Y. Herald shows that the "interview" as to the relevancy of the question, and Mr. with Senator Conkling that it publishes McNickle answered that he desired to was prepared by the Senator and furnished show that the body which elected Mr. to the Herald correspondent on condition Chadbourne was not the legal legislature! that it should be printed entire. The fact The Judge replied that it was not necessa- that Senator Conkling has taken pains to ry to discuss that question in a suit between write out an "interview" with himself and two parties. It seems to be the intention get it telegraphed over the country shows of the fusionists to stand right up squarely that he feels how much the third-term in defence of the steal, as in Cumberland movement needs bolstering, and it is really county, and the case, as there, will un- a political signal of distress. In sending doubtedly be decided as squarely against to his paper the ready-made "interview" them. The sole question involved is this furnished by the N. Y. Senator, the —Were these claimants elected by the peo- Herald's Washington correspondent says: ple? The case is still on trial.

Senator Conkling's expression of unwavering confidence in the success of the third term scheme will be more gratifying to the ex-President when he reads them in the Herald because they are not shared by many of the shrewder Republican politicians here. The general opinion here is that the ex-President's renomination is less probably now than it was a month ago. Indeed, it will be seen that Mr. Conkling admits this, and confesses that there is at present "doubt and division of sentiment." A large number of Republican politicians who are not squeamish about the third term and would readily accept the ex-President for their candidate if he could be elected, have become convinced that his nomination would bring defeat on the party, and on this ground they deplore the third term movement. The third termers themselves are just now engaged in a vigorous attempt to scare Mr. Blaine off the track by threats of making it too hot for him if he is nominated, and by appeals to his friends not to carry their canvass too eagerly in Illinois, less something disagreeable should happen to their man.

Five individuals from Boston held a conference with ten or twelve other persons in New York, Friday, and gravely telegraphed that an important protest had been uttered through them by Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania against the nomination of Grant or, Blaine. The "three tailors of Tooley street" can now take down their sign.

SENATOR BLAINE'S CANVASS.

A POINTED INTERVIEW WITH SENATOR BLAIR, OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Among the Senators who are classed for Blaine against the field is Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, who, although one of the new members of the Senate, is as active in his duties as those who are his senior in service by many years. The Boston Traveller Correspondent met Senator Blair Thursday, when the following conversation ensued:

Traveller Correspondent.—Senator, I wish you would tell the Traveller what you think of the Presidential outlook, and who you think is going to be nominated at Chicago.

Senator Blair—I think Blaine is gaining votes, daily, especially at the South, where he will have a larger number of delegates in the Convention than any other candidate. The opposition to the third term seems to be developing and consolidating in all parts of the country, and whether it be wise or foolish, nevertheless it exists to such an extent as to constitute the chief danger of Republican defeat in November if the party should embarrass itself with that issue. There are several of the close Northern States which it is indispensable the Republicans should carry, and which are relied upon in all their calculations, where the feeling is so strong on the part of many of the stalwarts and oldest members of the party, that nothing but the most strenuous efforts would save them with Grant as the nominee. The matter has gone so far and the anti-third term feeling has been laughed at and derided so much that great numbers of quiet and resolute men who have as yet said nothing,—and if Grant is nominated will say nothing but go and vote dead against us in November. For one I will have no lot or part in making such a nomination. There are a score of wise and eminent leaders of the party, any one of whom, if made the candidate, will avoid this difficulty and insure an overwhelming victory in November.

T. C.—What is your opinion as to the strength of the candidacy of Blaine and Grant?

Senator Blair—So far as the prospects of individual candidates are concerned, I think Mr. Blaine is decidedly ahead, and constantly gaining in all parts of the country. He is sure of representation among the delegations from every Southern State. The strength of Sherman is also undoubtedly increasing. I do not believe in the probability of the nomination of any "dark horse." It will be a positive convention at Chicago, and some one who is known and talked about is certain to be nominated.

T. C.—Do you consider Blaine a strong candidate?

Senator Blair—Much the strongest candidate named to get votes, and his nomination would help us out in New Hampshire better than any other man; but we shall carry our State triumphantly no matter whom may be the nominee.

T. C.—But if Blaine is nominated, won't the opposition revive the old charges against him with telling effect?

Senator Blair—The charges made against Blaine were thoroughly examined and utterly disproved by the investigating committee made up of his enemies in the House in 1876, and his exoneration by the testimony—which the committee refused to report (although importuned to do so by his friends), because they were determined not to vindicate him—was complete. No one who knows anything of that testimony—and I know it all—could but believe in his absolute innocence, and nothing but Democratic malice and determination to cripple and destroy the strongest man in the Republican party with the people of the country, prevented his formal vindication by the committee, which, constituted as it was, dared not report against him and publish the evidence for the inspection of his constituents.

T. C.—But, Senator, do you think Blaine could, if he was nominated, carry New York?

Senator Blair—He is the strongest Republican candidate for New York to-day—much stronger than Grant. If nominated there is no doubt he will receive the cordial and emphatic support of every leading Republican. To suppose the contrary is to insult the Republicans of that State, and no one who knows anything about it, believes that Blaine would fail to receive the hearty support of the united party there.

T. C.—Do you believe that Blaine will get a majority of the Illinois delegates?

Senator Blair—No, I never supposed it possible. He is, I think, the first choice of the masses of the party there, but it will be very singular if General Grant, should not get the delegation of his own State. But as soon as it is apparent that Grant's nomination is improbable, there is no doubt Blaine will receive a majority of the votes of that delegation. The talk in the papers that unless Blaine delegates are chosen from Illinois there will be no prospect of his nomination does not seem sensible to me. It is of course indispensable to Grant that he carry the State; but to no one else. But still their convention is not until the 19th of May, and I should not be surprised if the developments prior to that time gave Blaine the advantage even there.

T. C.—Will the New Hampshire Republicans declare for Blaine at the State Convention?

Senator Blair—I have no doubt of the election of a Blaine delegation. The convention will be large and harmonious. We know enough to keep the peace among ourselves, and to make war upon no one but our enemies. You need not worry about New Hampshire.

BOGUS OFFICIALS IN WASHING TON COUNTY

The case of the counted-in and counted-out county officers of Washington, are being tried at this term of the Supreme Court in Calais, before Judge Symonds. C. B. Rounds, County Attorney; Robert F. Campbell, County Commissioner; and Ignatius Sargent, Treasurer, claim the respective places now held by their fusion competitors, who were counted-in by Garcelon and his piratical crew. E. K. Smart, fusion County Attorney, assisted by Mr. McNickle, are conducting the case for the fusionists. Smart makes about the same exhibition of himself as he did before the Hale Investigating committee.

The disappearance of the Atlanta, the successor to the ill-fated Eurydice, suggests the desirability of discontinuing the use of wooden vessels for the training of young seamen. Certainly the risks would be fewer if steam vessels were employed for the purpose. The Atlanta left Bermuda three months ago, and has probably foundered after knocking about in mid-ocean. She was built at Pembroke in 1844, and after service as a man-of-war was used as a water-police hulk in Portsmouth Harbor till 1877. After the foundering of the Eurydice she was converted into a training ship, and fitted out at Devonport, her four sixty-four-pounder's being at that time fixed on the main deck; and to increase her stability, by lowering her centre of gravity, the main and fore masts were shortened six feet, her mizen five feet, her jibboom four feet, and her bowsprit two feet seven inches. These reductions involved a considerable diminution of the canvas carried. Recommendations made at the close of her first cruise to the West Indies led to her armament being unshipped and replaced by two nine-pounders, which were placed on the weather deck, compensation in weight being effected by the introduction of ten tons additional ballast.

JUDGE PETERS' RULING.

The following is the ruling of Judge Peters in the bogus county officer's case in Cumberland:

The plaintiff was the Republican candidate for county commissioner last September.

His petition alleges that he received a majority of the votes cast for that office in Cumberland county, and that he has taken the oath of office before a dedimus justice, and prays that Wm. B. Skillin, the Democratic candidate, who holds under a certificate from Gov. Garcelon, may be ousted under the act of March 6, 1880, providing for the trial of causes involving the right of parties to hold public office.

The answer alleges that the decision of the Governor and Council is conclusive as to the fact that Skillin and not Prince was elected; and furthermore, that the act of March 6, 1880, is null and void, being the act of a pretended Legislature, signed by a pretended Governor.

On this latter plea, Judge Peters ruled Friday morning as follows:

The answer of the respondent denies the legal existence of the legislature that created the act under which this proceeding is instituted, and also the authority of the Governor who approved the act.

In a proceeding like this, the allegations of the respondent are not deemed by me to be competent and applicable, and I think evidence is not admissible in their support.

The question aimed at cannot be reached in such a way. But two persons are named as parties to this bill, while the question raised is a public one which affects all the people of the State. If to be decided at all, it must be decided for all the people of the State. It is not permissible to try the question collaterally, in different ways, in different tribunals and at different times; involving tedious and expensive litigations, the result of which no persons are bound but the immediate parties thereto.

In the trial of causes, the law confers upon the court the authority and responsibility, without plea and proof, to decide for itself whether it is administering laws passed by a legal government or not. It is a matter for judicial recognition. History and notorious public events stand for proof.

The law court, acting under a constitutional provision, has already, upon a solemn occasion, publicly declared its recognition of the two Houses that passed the act in question as legal organizations.

My ruling will be that no evidence can be received in support of the respondent's proposition, in his answer and pleas, which deny the rightful authority of the two Houses passing and of the Governor approving the act involved in the proceeding before us.

The respondent can, of course, carry the question further by his right of exceptions or appeal.

The court excluded any and all testimony about the organization of the Legislature and the election of Governor.

THE DEXTER SAVINGS BANK.

In connection with the decree of the Supreme Court restoring to the credit of depositors in the Dexter Savings Bank the full amount of the fifty per cent. scaled down from their accounts in August 1878, the Treasurer, Mr. Hamilton, has published the following statement to the depositors, which we copy from the Dexter Gazette:

To the Depositors of the Dexter Savings Bank:

It will be remembered that the Bank Examiner on the 10th of June, 1878, suspended this Bank on account of insolvency, and on the 10th of August of the same year the Supreme Judicial Court after a very careful examination of the assets and liabilities of the Bank, scaled down the depositors' accounts fifty per cent., in order to render the bank solvent and safe to do business, and now at the present April term—The Supreme Judicial Court—upon a petition of the Trustees—has made another examination of this bank, and has declared the bank solvent, having a sufficient amount of assets to meet all its liabilities, and the Court has issued a decree restoring the full amount of the scale, payable in two installments, one-half on the first day of May, 1880, and the other half on the first day of May, 1881.

Their amounts will be restored to the depositors' accounts on the books of the bank in accordance with this decree of the Court, and interest will commence to accrue on the same from the above dates respectively. The business of the bank will be continued the same as if nothing had happened. As the deposit books are all right now, it will not be necessary to present them unless it becomes necessary to withdraw funds from the bank. In answer to the oft repeated inquiry, "Will back dividends be paid upon the scale?" I am not prepared to say how the matter of back dividends upon the scale will be finally adjusted by the Court, neither am I prepared to say how the withdrawal of these funds from the bank will affect the final settlement of back dividends.

The depositors are entitled to back dividends in order to make them whole, and we are not unmindful of the fact that many of the depositors have their little all in this bank, and not receiving regular dividends has been a serious matter to them. If the bank gets its honest dues by collecting the amount due from the late Treasurer, there will be funds that could be appropriated for that purpose and should be paid. The depositors own the bank and your deposits constitute the funds of the bank, consequently if any of the funds have been abstracted and illegally used, it is your funds that are missing, and the bank has no means of making up this loss to you excepting by recovery of the same. The books of the bank have been examined by a competent expert and his report to the Trustees shows conclusively how and where these funds were abstracted from the bank and the purpose for which a portion of it was used. This report shows as conclusively that the late Treasurer used your funds, that is the funds of the bank, for the purpose of procuring and carrying the very large amount of life insurance and in paying for his late homestead and other property, and as this property is now held by the estate, it would seem just and right that the portion, at least, that was used to procure this property, should be restored to its rightful owners. The Trustees have taken legal measures for the recovery from the estate of about $5,000 of the missing funds, and you can rest assured that in the faithful discharge of their duties, every honest endeavor will be used to recover this amount and restore it to the depositors—the rightful owners.

The cost in the case has been amply provided for and the result can in no way interfere with the full payment of the scale in accordance with the decree of Courts. It is only the back dividends to which you are entitled that are involved in this suit.

A wrong impression has been given to the public by the statement published by the associate Counsel for the defence as correspondent of the Lewiston Journal, that this case would be tried at the present April term of Court, when it can only be entered at this term, and before the case can be tried the Court will appoint a commission to examine the books and accounts of the bank. When the case is tried the evidence will be given to the public in a legal form, and justice to everybody demands that this should be done to the fullest extent.

The bank is now in a very prosperous condition like most other banks of business, the bottom was reached in 1879, and the last few months shows a decided improvement. The amounts received on deposit have exceeded the amounts withdrawn from the bank, and the general feeling is that with returning business prosperity—with the recovery of missing funds—and with an economical and faithful administration of affairs, the bank will become re-established on a firm and enduring basis, the depositors fully secured against loss, and all will be well.

GEO. HAMILTON, Treas.

Does Russia really suffer more from the plague and from famine than she once did, or does this only seem to be the fact because the telegraph gives so frequent details of this nature? We are told that the plague has burst out afresh in the Volsk district, and it also prevails in the Saratoff country. Famine, moreover, is reported to be ravaging the banks of the Don. All the graneries are said to be empty, and the people are destitute of money. Deaths from starvation are said to be in many quarters a constant occurrence. What with her political grief, the plague and famine, the misery of Russia could scarcely, to appearance, be exceeded. It is little wonder that people seek to flee from a country that may now hold to be accursed. But for the lack of ships and money, Russians by tens of thousands would flock to the United States; and we are by no means sure that it would not be to the interest of the Russian government to promote, rather than to impede, precisely such a movement.

NEWS AND MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

Frank Leslie, the well known publisher, having turned away his wife of thirty years and disinherited his children, leaving all his property to a mistress whom he finally married after forcing his wife to submit to a divorce, is having his life overhauled in a New York court, the children having brought suit to contest his will.

Now, owing to the rise in value of his manufacturing and other stocks, his estate is estimated at a million and a quarter dollars, or $450,000 more than the liabilities.

Johnny wanted to go to the circus, and his father said: "Johnny, I'd rather you'd go to school, and study, and maybe you'll be President some day." Said Johnny: "Father, there's about one million boys in the United States, isn't there?" "Yes." "And every one of them stands a chance of being President?" "Yes." "Well, dad, I'll sell out my chance for a circus ticket."

It is estimated that twenty-four hundred persons were converted at Moody and Sankey's meetings in St. Louis. Mr. Moody spoke one hundred and sixty-eight times and addressed one hundred and ninety-seven thousand people.

Two of them put up five dollars apiece on a wager that one could hold a wasp in his hand longer than the other could, and the fellow who rubbed chloroform on his hand expected to win; but other fellow happened to know that male wasps don't sting, and got one of that sex, and they grabbed their wasps and sat and smiled at each other, while the crowd wandered, until the chloroform had evaporated, and the fellow who used it, suddenly let go his wasp and let the audience into the secret of how to swear the shingles all off the roof.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The New Ministers.

LONDON, May 1. It is believed that all the ministers appointed under the new government will be re-elected without opposition except Vernon Harcourt. There is difficulty about Charles Bradlaugh, Liberal, returned to the House from Northampton, taking the oath of allegiance. He is willing to make affirmation, but the authorities of the House have not agreed whether that will be admissible and it may be necessary to appoint a committee to consider the question which is within the exclusive control of the House. Writs for the re-election of members of the new ministry will be issued Monday or Tuesday. The Commons will adjourn Tuesday until the 20th which will cover the usual Whit-Suntide recess.

The Situation in Northern Albania.

MANCHESTER, May 1. The Guardian's correspondent at Ragusa says the situation in Northern Albania is serious. The combined Albanian clans, numbering 15,000, are advancing to attack the Montenegrin positions in the Movatsena valley, and if possible recover Podzoritza.

The London Times sees Bright Prospects for Ireland.

LONDON, May 2. The Times in approving the appointment of Earl Cowper, as Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, says: "Want in Ireland seems to be over; the spring has been seasonable and the promise of summer excellent. If a good harvest succeeds, the dismal experience of recent years and the exasperation of temper that comes from want, will die away. The Irish administration has great difficulties to overcome, but if their councils are equal to their opportunity, they may do much to remove permanent causes of Irish dissatisfaction."

Parnell's Land Scheme.

DUBLIN, May 2. Freeman's Journal says the details of Parnell's land scheme could never be carried out save by revolution. No Parliament likely to be elected for a generation would consent to compel all landlords to sell.

The Dublin correspondent of the London Globe says the wildness of Parnell's scheme has obliged the original sponsors for the land question to protest against it.

Prince Leopold Coming.

New York cable specials state that Prince Leapold leaves May 13th for Canada, and subsequently will visit St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati, Washington, New York and Newport. The trip will last about four months.

Foreign Powers Will Resist Monroe Doctrine.

LONDON, May 2. The Pall Mall Gazette states that the intention on the part of the United States to abrogate the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and put in force the Monroe doctrine, will undoubtedly receive the condemnation of England, France, Spain, Holland, and South American Governments. At the Friday evening meeting of Beecher's church, Lawyer Shearman deprecated the sermon preached by Beecher on the previous Sabbath upon West Point, to which Beecher responded that he preached not against the institution, but against the social ostracism practiced there upon Whitaker, because he was of that race which had shown its courage upon the battle field for liberty. Beecher was applauded, and Sherman subsided.

An interesting case has just been decided by the supreme court of Pennsylvania, which has overruled the decision of a lower court. The Mutual Life Insurance company, of New York, issued a policy to a Pennsylvanian who had signed an application in which were these printed words: The applicant "further declares that he is not now afflicted with any disease or disorder, and that he does not now, nor will he, practice any pernicious habit that obviously tends to the shortening of life." In the body of the policy was the stipulation that, if any of the declarations made in the application should be found in any respect untrue, the policy should become void. At the time the policy was issued the insured was a man of steady habits. Several years later he became intemperate, and finally was attacked with delirium tremens, which resulted in his death. Demand being made upon the company, they cited the declarations of the insured contained in the application and the clause in the body of the policy, and refused to pay. Suit was brought, and the court decided in favor of the company. Now the supreme court reverses that decision, and orders judgment for the full amount of the policy, with interest. In the opinion the court say that "as the insured had not made any false representation of existing facts in his application for insurance the controlling question was whether his declaration as to his future intention and his failure to carry out that intention were sufficient to work a forfeiture of the policy." This question is answered in the negative and the court goes on to say that "in no part of the application had the insured covenanted, promised, agreed, or warranted not to practise any pernicious habit. He declared that he would not; but the legal effect of a declaration is very different from that of a covenant or agreement. Nor was there and clause in the policy providing that, if the insured should do anything to shorten life, the policy should, ipso facto, become void." The stipulation in the policy before mentioned, the court say, "evidently referred to a state of things existing at the time the policy was issued."

A MOTHER'S SAD DISCOVERY. A curious and shocking accident occurred in Readington, N. J., on Friday last, resulting in the death of the daughter of Peter Hyler, a well-known farmer. The little one, four years old, accompanied her mother out to feed the chickens, and remained near the wagon-house to play after the mother had returned. When half an hour had elapsed, the mother grew anxious about the child and went to look for her. To her horror she found the dead body of her child suspended by the neck from the door of a corn-crib, which is built in the wagon-house. The door is composed of boards which slide up and down in a groove. Some of the upper boards had previously been shoved up, where they had caught fast, thus leaving an opening about four feet from the ground. It is supposed that in playing the little girl put her head through this opening and swung her feet against the boards forming the lower part of the door. The jar must have caused the upper boards to fall, and, catching the child's head, they imprisoned her and choked her to death. Her feet did not reach the ground by about three inches, so that she could not free herself from the terrible position.

NAILS. Nails have made a great jump downward, or rather have been marked down. The eastern makers met in New York and marked down prices from $5.10 to $4.25, with the usual discount to the trade. The western makers had a meeting the day before and reduced their price from $5.25 to $4. On Monday the time for starting comes round both east and west, and they will all start up, except one or two that are shut down for repairs.

DEFRAUDING HIS CREDITORS. It will be remembered by our readers, that a few weeks since J. H. French, a trader in Newport, claimed to have sold his stock of goods to Millard Fields, after which he left the State. By many this was regarded as a bogus sale, with the intention of defrauding his creditors. The store has now been put in charge of Mr. G. W. Brown, who has placed a keeper therein, while the case is being worked up by Hiram Knowlton, Esq., of Portland.

FALSE ALARM. The department was called out yesterday morning at a few minutes past four o'clock by a false alarm of fire. The alarm was caused by the smoke from the Bangor House chimney, it being very dense on account of burning sawdust in the furnace. The smoke settled down in the square and the police thinking that some of the buildings were on fire, sounded an alarm. The department went up as far as Union street and then returned to their quarters.

SUICIDE AT CARMEL. Last Thursday morning Charles Spratt, a young man about twenty years old, committed suicide in Carmel, where he was employed at the time. He had been exceedingly despondent for some time, but it was not thought that he would commit any rash act. On the morning in question he was missed by those with whom he was at work, and on going to the barn they found his lifeless remains suspended by a rope. It was a most determined suicide as his hands touched the floor when he was discovered.

LECTURE THIS EVENING. An exceptionally fine audience will undoubtedly greet Mr. Stoddard to-night at Norombega Hall, on the opening of his course of lectures. He has so many friends in Bangor, who have watched his remarkable growth as a public sperker with pride and satisfaction, that he will feel the inspiration that the appearance of a number of friendly faces alone can give. The opening to-night will be a memorable occasion, and we advise all who have not secured tickets to lose no time in doing so.

THE W. W. THOMAS. The bark W. W. Thomas, Capt. Boyd, of Portland, was wrecked on Hogstye reef, off Porto Rico. The crew were saved and went into some port of Porto Rico. The W. W. Thomas was a fine bark of six hundred and sixty-one tons, built at Calais some ten or twelve years ago, and commanded by a son of Capt. David Boyd, of Portland. She was owned by David Boyd, John Leaton and others, and valued at $25,000, mostly insured in Cape Cod and Boston offices. She had a cargo of coal and was bound from Liverpool to Matanzas.

BANGOR REFORM CLUB. The regular Sunday afternoon meeting of the Bangor Reform Club in City Hall was largely attended and the exercises of an interesting character. The meeting opened with reading the Scriptures by Mrs. Clark, of the Crusade, followed with prayer by Rev. Mr. Speare. Appropriate and earnest remarks were made by President Montgomery and Messrs. Samuel Jones, Duren, Stevens, Chalmers and Dickey, of the Club, also by Mr. Wadsay, Mr. Knight, of Westbrook, Mr. Campbell, of Belfast, and Rev. Mr. Speare, of this city. The meeting closed by the choir singing "Twill not be long."

CARRIAGE UPSET. Yesterday afternoon, Wilson Crosby, Esq., and his sister, Miss Mary Crosby, met with a serious accident while out driving. As they passed around the corner from Cumberland street to Broadway they met another team, making it necessary to drive up on one side in order to avoid a collision, and in so doing the carriage was overturned. The occupants were thrown out, but fortunately escaped any serious injury. The horse was naturally frightened when the carriage fell on its side and ran away, making a complete wreck of the top of the vehicle.

FESTIVAL THIS EVENING. This evening the Ladies' Relief Corps of Post Beal No. 12, G. A. R., will hold a sociable in Grand Army Hall. A very interesting programme, consisting of vocal and instrumental music and select readings has been prepared for the occasion. At the close of the entertainment a bountiful supper will be served. The tickets, including supper, have been placed at the low sum of fifteen cents, and as the proceeds will be devoted to the relief of destitute soldiers and their families, we hope the hall will be crowded to overflowing.

A SMART OLD MAN. The younger pedestrians may look well to their laurels. John Robinson, of Portland, about eighty years of age, lately passed through Bridgton on foot, en route to Portland, he having walked all the way from Aroostook county, where his two sons reside. He was fourteen days on the road. He stopped with a citizen, and in the morning, though not feeling well, pressed on towards Portland, where his daughters reside. Three years ago he walked from Portland to to Aroostook, and he is now getting back for the first time. He deserves the champion belt.

A NOVEL SIGHT. For some time now Mr. Beal has kept a large number of hens at the stable connected with the Bangor House, and Saturday morning one of his men, while collecting eggs, made a discovery of a novel character. In one of the compartments a large black hen was sitting on three kittens which she watched with as much care as though they were her own offspring. During the past two days the hen has remained in the nest nearly all of the time, and the kittens seem as contented as can be while carefully tucked away under her wings. Yesterday the old cat was seen entering the nest when she fed the kittens and then departed, leaving them to the care of the hen once more. It is certainly a novel sight and a great many people have visited the stable to see it for themselves.

THE CORN-CANNING INDUSTRY. J. Winslow Jones has paid up in full all bills in connection with his corn-canning business at his Bridgton and other factories, together with interest. Mr. Jones—as we have already intimated—has recently formed a copartnership with wealthy English capitalists, under the firm name of J. Winslow Jones & Co., working under an English charter, and is now entering upon the corn-packing campaign with great energy. There is a large and growing demand in Great Britain for American products, and British capitalists are alive to the opportunity for profitable investments in this direction. At the Bridgton cornfactory, Superintendent Burnham has opened the ball in good earnest with new and improved machinery. Can-making has commenced, and he is making contracts for corn, paying farmers this season three cents a can.

AN OLD RAILROAD OFFICIAL. The many friends of Mr. James M. Lunt, Superintendent of the Portland & Rochester railroad, will regret to learn that he has severed his connection with that corporation in order to accept a similar position on a leading railroad in New York State. Mr. Lunt commenced his experience as a railroad man on the Grand Trunk, and in 1856 his abilities called him to the superintendency of the C. C. & I. C. railroad at the West, which he managed most successfully for thirteen years. He then came East to build the European & North American road and, after its completion, filled the superintendency to great satisfaction until he was called to the superintendency of the Maine Central, leaving that corporation in 1875 to take the corresponding position on the Portland & Rochester, which he has held ever since. Mr. Lunt is not only a thorough railroad man but he is one of the most courteous of gentlemen. The general duties of the office of superintendent will be performed by Receiver Wescott.

OLD SOL. Spots upon the sun are numerous at the present time. The huge, blazing surface of the sun is dotted with spots in all directions. They throng the solar domain, sometimes appearing singly, then in groups, and then in rows. A large spot surrounded by smaller ones seems to be the favorite form of manifestation. Some of them are large enough to be seen with a spyglass, and some so small as to require a telescope of high power to bring them into view. We can form little idea of their immense size. The whole territory of the United States is smaller in dimensions than many of the sun-spots now visible, and some of them are larger than our whole globe. The cause of their appearance is unknown, but it has been ascertained that they occur with the greatest frequency once in about eleven years. When these spots begin to appear in great numbers, as at present, seasons of excessive heat usually follow attended with grand displays of northern lights. A hot summer is predicted. The cyclones and tornadoes of the West it is thought, may be caused by the atmospheric disturbances occasioned by the sun spots.

OBITUARY.

Death of a Veteran Missionary.

Rev. Benjamin Galen Snow died in Brewer, of paralysis, May 1st, aged sixty-three years.

Mr. Snow was born in Brewer and received his education in the schools of the town and at North Yarmouth Academy. He graduated at Bowdoin College in 1846, and from Bangor Seminary in 1849. He supplied the church in Pembroke, 1849-50; Cooper, 1849, and Lubec in 1851. He was ordained September 25th, 1851, and sailed with Mrs. Snow, from Boston, November 18th, 1851, via Cape Horn, to Honolulu, Sandwich Islands, and from thence to the then almost unknown Micronesia Islands, arriving in 1852.

He was an earnest and indefatigable laborer. No written form of language had been made and one of Mr. Snow's first efforts was to make an alphabet and form words, and ere long published primary books, and added others from time to time until they had an established literature. He was a singer himself and introduced music into the schools and families and churches.

The wonderful success which has attended his labors, the results of which are seen in the reports that are coming to us monthly, bear testimony to his patience and zeal and to the solid foundation which he laid for the civilization, education and christianization of the thousands in those islands of the sea.

Mr. Snow returned to this country on account of his health in July, 1877. He longed to return to the islands to finish his work and life in that part of the world.
